GAME PREVIEW

Despite the Round 3 upset, the UC Capitals are going into this Saturday's rematch against the Sydney Uni Flames with a positive outlook.

The UC Capitals started Round 3 on the wrong foot against the Melbourne Boomers, who reduced the UC Capitals to their first loss of the season. Although most expected this would be a close match up as the Boomers boast a lineup featuring imports Lindsey Allen and Sophie Cunningham and Australian Opal Ezi Magbegor, no one predicted a 35-point thrashing. Despite best intentions to regroup and turn the weekend around, the UC Capitals then fell to underdogs the Sydney Uni Flames, ending their rough start to the season.

Co-captain Kelsey Griffin kept level-headed about the team's forgettable double header though, noting this is a new and recovering team that's still learning about one another and figuring out their style of play. With the UC Capitals tallying 13 straight wins at home, the Flames shouldn't get too comfortable heading into Saturday's game.

Of course, Round 4 isn't all about settling scores. The UC Capitals are in the midst of their 2019 Indigenous Round and it's not just the change of uniform that's got the club excited.

On Wednesday, Director of Sport at the University of Canberra, Carrie Graf, announced the club's commitment to an annual Indigenous Basketball Scholarship to help remove cost as a barrier to participation and inspire the community to pursue basketball.

$1 from every ticket sold and $10 from every replica Indigenous jersey will go towards the scholarship meaning fans will not only be supporting the UC Capitals this weekend, but will directly contribute to making a difference within the community.

KAMBERRA

INDIGENOUS CLEANING

KAMBERRA INDIGENOUS CLEANING STARTED IN 2017 WITH A FOCUS ON DELIVERING QUALITY COMMERCIAL CLEANING WITH A PURPOSE. THAT PURPOSE WAS TO ASSIST AND ENGAGE WITH THE LOCAL INDIGENOUS COMMUNITY THROUGH NETWORKING WITH OTHER INDIGENOUS BUSINESSES AND PROVIDING GENUINE PATHWAYS AND EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES.

Kamberra had immediate success, securing a major Government Department in 2017 which then allowed the company to build and further expose the Kamberra Indigenous Cleaning brand amongst the Canberra business community.

Kamberra's General Manager, Tyrell Gooley, who is of aboriginal decent stemming back to the Gamilaroi people of northern NSW, is committed in the company delivering positive outcomes for clients, staff and the extensive Indigenous community.

"It is our aim as a company to promote and enhance the local Indigenous business community. We have a commitment to encourage Indigenous employment and support various Indigenous Organisations."

– Tyrell Gooley, General Manager

Kamberra Indigenous Cleaning can provide a number of cleaning services to a range of markets including:

- Government Departments
- Private enterprise
- Tourist attractions
- Health and Aged Care facilities
- Schools and Universities

Kamberra Indigenous Cleaning is honoured to be part of the ACT community and proud that, through its business practices, it's making a positive difference to the livelihoods of many.
